

Bio of Deborah Rose

Ms. Rose is the founder of Investigative Solutions Group, Unlimited. The foundation of ISGU was built on private investigations and litigation support and was previously known as DCR Enterprises. One of the niche areas of expertise this business offers is assisting families with special needs due to a mental illness.

Along with investigative experience, Ms. Rose's background consists of being a trained paralegal, small business mediator, and a Certified Director of the Winslow Research Institute, specializing in personal assessment profiling.

Ms. Rose is a Founding Member of the a national association of private investigators called Investigators Of America and has been certified as a teacher for continuing education in her field for over ten years. To assist in both her personal and business goals and achievements, Ms. Rose studied and achieved NLP Masters Practitioner Level of expertise in 2003.

Along with being featured in local and state radio programs over the years, Ms. Rose will be a contributing writer to Chicken Soup of the Soul: Children With Special Needs. Encouraged by this small success, Ms. Rose is currently working on a series of children's books that explain to young children in story form about different mental illnesses and how they affect the children and their families.

As Program Director for Visions For Tomorrow; along with being able to incorporate her other business efforts and creative endeavors to encompass her experiences in dealing with mental illness, Ms. Rose feels like she has finally come "into her own" and has found a way of working and satisfying her need to "make a difference", one person at a time, one day at a time.

Prior to becoming the VFT Program Director, Ms. Rose participated in the 2006 rewrite efforts for Visions for tomorrow and was active as a VFT volunteer for both NAMI Dallas and NAMI Texas and continues to be active in her community by serving as a child advocate, and also providing pro bono services monthly to women in need.
